

AUCTION PROCESS INCREASES SETTLEMENT BID BY 226%

UTILIZES UNIQUE FORMAL, WRITTEN BID PROCESS

THE SITUATION

Doug Fox¹, a former college athlete and owner of a sports supply business, purchased a $1.5 million universal life insurance policy in 2002 for estate planning purposes. Doug, now age 64, was referred by his attorney to a ValMark Advisor for a comprehensive life insurance review. When the policy was purchased, the planned premium was $16,000 per year. An increased premium of $82,000 per year was now needed to maintain this policy to age 100. Doug no longer needed the policy for estate planning purposes and had serious health impairments, reducing his life expectancy to between 28 and 94 months. A life settlement was recommended by the Valmark Advisor.

BID PROCESS CREATES UNEXPECTED VALUE

Our unique bidding process allowed potential providers to submit their initial blind bid which ranged from $100,000 to $250,000. Once the initial offers were submitted, the ValMark Life Settlement Team began its auction process. The auction process ran for 28 rounds resulting in a final high offer of $815,000 gross ². Had Doug surrendered this policy he would have received $500.

THE OUTCOME

Initially, Doug was prepared to surrender the policy for $500. At the outset of the bidding process, he was willing to accept the initial low offer of $250,000. By going a step further with our auction process, Doug ultimately was able to receive the true market value for the sale of his policy. The result of working with multiple providers was a final offer that was 226% higher than the initial offer on this policy (before commissions and expenses²).

THE TAKEAWAY

In 2015, investors purchased $1.7 billion of U.S. life insurance face value.³ This is a positive indicator for the future of the life settlement industry. It is the responsibility of the advisor to educate clients regarding the life settlement option. Consider a life settlement as an alternative to lapsing or surrendering the policy.

In such cases, the client can always surrender their policy to the carrier if the coverage is no longer needed. AUCTION PROCESS INCREASES SETTLEMENT BID BY 226%

HOW THE INITIAL OFFER OF $100,000—$250,000 JUMPED TO A FINAL GROSS OFFER OF $815,000

OUR METHODOLOGY

Valmark has a unique formal, written bid process that forces all providers to play on the same level playing field and awards cases strictly on the merit of the provider making the higher offer. While it is impossible to predict exactly which providers will have the strongest money at any given point in time, a consistent and written process finds this money for the client. This process helps to assure clients that they are receiving fair market value for the sale of their policy.

CASE STUDY

In the case of Doug Fox¹, the auction went for 28 rounds with a beginning high bid of $250,000 and a resulting bid of $815,000. The initial offer from the buyer increased 226%. The low initial bid on this case was $100,000. The final offer resulted in a 715% increase from the lowest initial bid on this policy. This result underscores the importance of a formal written bid process among multiple, institutional fund sources in order for clients to be confident they are receiving fair market value for the sale of their policies.

LIFE SETTLEMENT DISCLOSURE

- In a life settlement agreement, the current life insurance policy owner transfers the ownership and beneficiary designations to a third party, who receives the death proceeds at the passing of the insured. As a result, this buyer has a financial interest in the seller's death.
- A policy owner should consider the continued need for coverage, and, if the policy owner plans to replace the existing policy with another policy, the policy owner should consider the availability, adequacy and cost of comparable coverage.
- Policy owners considering the need for cash should consider other less costly alternatives to a life settlement.
- When an individual decides to sell their policy, they must provide complete access to their medical history, and other personal information, that may affect their life expectancy. This information is requested during the initial application for a life settlement.
- After the completion of the sale, there may be an ongoing obligation to disclose similar and additional information to the buyer or servicing agent at a later date.
- A life settlement may affect the insured's ability to obtain insurance in the future and the seller's eligibility for certain public assistance programs, such as Medicaid, and there may be tax consequences.
- Individuals should discuss the taxation of the proceeds received from a life settlement with their tax advisor.
- A life settlement transaction may require an extended period of time to complete. Due to complexity of the transaction, fees and costs incurred with the life settlement transaction may be substantially higher than other securities.
- Once the policy is transferred, the policy owner has no control over subsequent transfers.
- Valmark and its registered representatives act as brokers on the transaction and may receive a fee from the purchaser.
- Valmark Securities supervises all life settlements like a security transaction.
